

METHODS AND SYSTEMS FOR DOCUMENT NAVIGATION USING ENHANCED THUMBNAILS

Abstract of the Disclosure

A thumbnail image includes at least one selectable element. The selectable element may be selected, or the document as a whole may be selected. The selectable element is associated with either (a) a portion of the original document, smaller than the original document as a whole or (b) a document other than the original document. When the thumbnail as a whole is selected, the original document is displayed. When the selectable element is selected, the appropriate portion of the original document, or the document other than the original document, is displayed.

Figures